

Hello Summer...

Since our Prayer Letter in April, life has been busy here at the National Parenting Initiative. We continue to be thankful for your prayers, support and interest in what we are doing and hope you will continue to partner with us in the months ahead.

As you know, our vision is to encourage churches to run parenting courses, and we love to signpost to fantastic resources. One such resource is Parenting for Faith which we are delighted to have added to our website in recent months. Please visit our website to find out more.

At the start of June, The NPI exhibited at ALIVE Worcestershire – A high energy family worship concert for young families. Over 600 people attended, and we had many encouraging conversations about resources to support families.

Mission at the School Gates

Earlier this month we held three 1-hour events to launch 'Mission at the School Gates', our project to inspire and equip Christian parents to run parenting courses in their local primary schools. The events were a fantastic way to connect with a good number of people in Bristol who have an interest in running parenting courses, and we look forward to seeing how the courses develop!

Prayer Spaces in Schools

In September, the Prayer Spaces in Schools movement will be holding a conference in Birmingham. With Ted-style talks, Q & A panels and interviews with practitioners it promises to be a great day for anyone involved with or interested in this area. Visit www.prayerspacesinschools.com for more information. If you run a prayer group for your school, don't forget to register of the Pray for Schools website: www.prayforschools.org

Stand with us

As you know, the NPI is a registered charity, and as such, we rely on donations and gifts to continue our work. Would you consider partnering with us financially to enable us to develop our work of encouraging churches to run parenting courses? Whether you are able to give a one off gift or make a monthly donation, the money we receive will help us to continue our work and increase our capacity for reaching a wider number of people with our vision. Please contact Kayte at the office for more information or a standing order form (office@thenpi.org.uk). Thank you.
